

Method of decreasing nicotine withdrawal symptoms during smoking cessation.

Abstract

Injecting a patient with a solution of anticolenergic medications can alleviate the symptoms of nicotine withdrawal. Used in conjunction with pre injection and post injection counseling, smoking cessation rates may be significantly improved.